special order to-day, the question of seeles all day last week engaged in Parliasetary battle. The Republicans were not at and forego their purpose of clipping the wings of the Lieutenant-Governor. This has no reference to the white wings the Governer wears for a mountache. Only the ladies are parmitted to joke about them.

Ers. Senator Jacobe indulged in a joke at the General's expense this morning that made a little fun for the circle in which it was perpetrated. After inquiring with great apparent mde whether he was much hurt in an accident reported to have befallen him, she finally extricated him from a maze of bewilderment by explaining that she had heard that he had fallen up stairs from tripping on the ends of his moustache.

When the Republicans learned by diplomatiinquiry that the Democrats would stick to their position on the change in the rules, they decided not to have another fuss. It only em-phasizes the utter impossibility of their being able to get it through. The special order was therefore put over until hext Thursday, with a proviso, the suggestion of Senator Cantor. hat it may not be considered unless both the Lieutenant-Governor and the President pro em. are present. There is little expectation that the trial of endurance will ever be resumed on this question. Most of the Senate's time was taken up with a talk about the resolutions of inquiry con-cerning canal matters that the Assembly had refused to pass for Mr. Deyo. They are directd to the Superintendent of Public Works. and involve a vast amount of elerical work. Sensors Cantor and McNaughton decisred them to be unnecessary, while Senator O'Connor med more than bungry for the information.

Oute a time-consuming complication arose over Saxton's Pool bill that prohibits pool selling except on race tracks. The Lieutenant-Governor held that it could not pass with the ninstean votes recorded in its favor, because three-fifths were not present. Mr. Saxton thought differently, but the presiding officer remarked that he had to sign the certificates the rassage of bills, and would set on the judgment he had expressed. All sorts of exgetting some more Senators into the Chamber possible. Senator McCarren called out for at least ten minutes for the result of the vote at least ten minutes for the result of the vote before the effort was given up. The bill was declared lost in the absence of the three-fifth. Senater McCarren said that he did not care about the bill one way or the other. It was only a question of prohibiting gambling by one set of gamblers in favor of another set. Among the bills introduced was a bridge bill from Van Gorder, incorporating a company to build a bridge to Canada across the Magara lifer just above the great whichool. Senator McCarren tried to have it sent to the Committee on Commerce and Navigation, but it was sent to the General Laws Committees. Nenator Laughlin offered a concurrent resolution that the Canal Committees of both houses aboud be instructed to report no bills for bridges, walls, or other canal work except the constitutional appropriation bills, unless coupled with conditions similar to those that leader McClelland is insisting on in the Assembly. Certificates as to the necessity of the work and such precautions against extravagance are the conditions. At first it looked as though Benator Laughlin was trying to steal Democratic thunder in the resolution, but an examination showed that there was something cless in the wind. He had omitted one important condition, and that was that it must be certified that the work ought to be done at the extrans of the State.

The Assembly's session to-day was the noisiest on record. Time after time was the speaker obliged to indulge in gavel exercise to quiet the confusion so that he could tell what was going on. If the restless spirit that caused this was due to the expectation of getting away in the afternoon under the resolution for the Sherman adjournment, that expectation was grievously disappointed and that restlessness properly punished. Leader McClelland cracked the whip and read a lecture to the boys on the necessity of keeping up with the excellent record made thus far and disposing of the calendar of the day, which exiled-up measures had interfered with. He moved that a recesse be taken at 2 o'clock until 8. Mr. Fish objected that all the members had made their arrangements to get away under the concurrent resolution for adjournment, and that there had been no expectation of an evening session, but the Bepublicans did not case to go on record against a motion to attend to business, and McClelland's motion was adopted. His purpose was very evident when the announcement of a lot of committee meetings was made. If the House had adjourned at 2 no one would have stayed to the committee meetings was made. If the house had adjourned the Speaker's during a great part of the session.

The ball opened with a little jeoularity at the committee meetings, and no work would have been got ready for next week. The handsome face of bistrict Atterney kidgway of Brooklyn hankel the Speaker's during a great part of the seesi-on.

The ball opened with a little jocularity at the expense of Mr. Whipple, to whom Clerk De Fisset sent a page boy with a blue ribbon taken from a veto message from the Governor. It was levelled against an act to legalize the action of the Board of Supervisors of Catteraugus county in the matter of dividing into two towns the fown of South Valley. But hir, Whipple langhed the contented laugh of the man who laughs last as he rose to explain that the bill and limbelf had received the greatest couriesy at the hands of the Governor. And he asked for unanimous consent to put in and pass a bill free from the objections that the Governor had justly made to the other. This proposition went through nicely, it veto mea-ages could be thus comfortably disposed of in every instance one of the most thorny obstarles to the happiness of the average legislator would be removed.

The majority and minority reports on the Duniap-Dwyer Mostgomery county contested seat were received, and made the special order for next Wednesday. The majority report and w. Barlow Duniap will not draw any more pay after that day. Mr. Hitt was a little suspicious about the minority report. having heard that it was the intention to make some ex parte and avits a part of the record. The Republicans are trying to make a point that they cannot get their soldeness; but they had three weeks in which to appear before the Mayor, who took the testimony and would not take advantage of it. They do not attempt to controvert the bribery charges, on which the action of the committee is based. Mr. W. C. Bievens, who introduced the minority report, assured Mr. Hitt that there were no affidavits in it, and it was received.

The avegadment to the Penal Code, known as the Anti-Pinkerton bill, was on the order of second reading, and served to attract or granizational way that the labor mitted. It is to be amended to a considerable strent.

Among the bills passed were Mr. Roche's for a monument to Col. Ward B. Burnett in New York and Mr. T. D. Buillwan's Ranney New York and Mr. T. D. Buillwan's Ranney New York and Long Island Bridge bill.

The night seasion of the Assembly was confronted with a newly printed calendar with neer bills on it than were on the calendar of the day when the recease was taken. But the colgs did not work and an adjournment was had in time to eatch the special train the terrors will people of investigations is already in their hands.

Hill did not leave the Executive Mansion to-day. He is nursing the cold he brought home from New Jork. Buch cases as that of his friend Judge Mulier seem to have inspired the Governor with a wholesome respect for colds. He has an engagement to dine with the Southern Society in New York on Saturday night, and with the Rochester Board of Trade on the 23d, Chaunery M. Depew and Senator Fassett are also to speak at the Boohester banquet. The Governor's temporary sectuation has started rumors that he is engaged on a scheme to get a lot of appointments confirmed, in pursuance of what is known in some quarters as the "Piercs deal," When questioned about this story, the Governor said that there was nothing in it. He does not feel under any obligations to the Republican Senators, who voted for personal reasons as between one Democrat and another, and there was no deal that he knows of He would be willing to send in the names of some more Democrats for the hold-over places if he thought that he could get them confirmed, but he says he is not considering the maning of any Republicans.

SPERCH FOR DRAF MITTER

Dr. A. Graham Bell Gives $85,000 to Pro-Dr. Alexander Graham Bell presented to the Board of Directors of the American Associa-tion to Promote the Teaching of Speech to the Deaf, which was in session on Monday and Tuesday at the Madison Avenue Hotel, the

This association was formed at the twelfth quadrennial convention of American teachers of the deaf, which was held in this city last August. At a meeting in Albany in September the association was incorporated. The directors are Alexander Graham Bell, President; Gardiner G. Hubbard and C. A. Yale. Vice-Presidents; Z. F. Westervelt, Secretary: Philip G. Gillett, David Greenberger, A. L. E. Crouter, E. L. Barton, and M. H. True.
The gift of Dr. Bell will be known as the Bell-

Volta Fund, which will be in the form of a permanent investment the interest only to be because the $25,000 is part of the accumulated income from the investment of the amount received by Dr. Bell as the award which the French Government made him as inventor of the telephone.

The accumulated interest of this award is under the management of trustees, with the purpose that it shall be used as Dr. Bell may purpose that it shall be used as Dr. Bell may direct for the promotion of the interests of deaf mutes and for scientific research. For several years Dr. Bell has been investigating the results of intermarriage among the deaf who have inherited tendencies to deafness.

The statistics he has gathered have demonstrated that smong the children of those who themselves inherit deafness a very large proportion are deaf and dumb, a proportion considerably above the ordinary ratio of deaf muteness to the general population. The expenses accruing from Dr. Hell's researches in this direction have been defrayed from the voits fund.

beneas accruing from Dr. Bell's researches in this direction have been defrayed from the Volta fund.

Be. Bell was a teacher of the deaf, and it was incidentally through his work of teaching the deaf to speak that he invented the telephone. His wile, who was hiss Hubbard, the daughter of the Hon, Gardiner C. Hubbard, the daughter of the Association, would have been a deaf mute, but was one of the first persons in this country to be taught to speak and read from the lips.

There are in the country about seventy-five schools for the deaf, with about 12,000 scholars. In almost all certain pupils are selected to be taught to speak and to read from the lips, but many—about 5,000—are not taught to speak at all. This association has been organized to provide means so that all may have an opportunity to learn to speak. Dr. Bell's gift enables the association to begin this work, and the executive committee will arrange to give normal instruction to teachers of the deaf. They will hold a summer meeting of the association, at which there will be lectures and discussions.

The committee will also publish bulleting. The first number will probably soon be issued. containing an account of the method of teaching at Mr. Greenberger's school, on Lexington avenue.

A committee of eight representatives was appointed to attend Gen. Bherman's funeral Gov. Bulkeley has offered to pay the transportation expenses of all veterans in the House of Representatives, and it is understood that about thirty, including Demoorats and Republicans, are going. The Governor will also take his staff, and the entire delegation will occupy two parior cars.

When a communication was received in the Senate from Gov. Bulkeley making several appointments, a motion was made by Mr. Fox Dem.) to reject the communication and send it back to the person who sent it. It was so ordered. Various unsuccessful attempts were made by the Republicans to correct the journal of restarday so that it should record the message from Gov. Bulkeley on the death of Gen. Sherman, which it does not now do.

The joint resolution introduced exterday by Senator Shumway, raising a committee of both Houses to attend with the Governor and his staff the funeral of Gen. Sherman, was called from the table. After a long debate the Democrats voted the resolution down, and adjourned without appointing any committee to attend the funeral. No attention was paid to several communications from Gov. Bulkeley, one of which renominated Judge Loomis to the Surgeme Hench. Both Houses adjourned until next Tuesday at 1 P. M.

FIVE PERSONS SUFFOCATED.

EXCITED MOTHER STOPS TO DRESS HER FOUR CHILDREN.

Meantime, Finnes Are Creeping Through the House and Smoke is Filling the Hallways-No Pire Escapes. Fire occurred shortly before daybreak yesterday morning in the three-story frame house 170 Hopkins street, Brooklyn. Before it was extinguished a mother and her four children had been burned or sufficiented to death, one man was in hospital, suffering from the effects of boiling oil, and six families were homeless and clotheless. The loss was about $14,000. The house had a frontage of twenty feet on Hopkins street and ran nearly 100 feet along Delmonico place. It was on the southeast corner. Above the first, each floor accommodated two families. Fritz Rothfuhs, with his wife and ing place and the basement as a bakery. The second floor was divided between August Miller, bachelor, and Charles Lieberman and his family. Simon Hesser and John Keny and their families and the widow Mary Henry and her four little once lived on the top floor. Rothfuhs employed but one journeyman baker, Jacob Emmerich. At 3 o'clock in the morning Emmerich was alone. He set out to make some cruliers. For this purpose an iron pot contain-ing about twelve quarts of oil had been placed on the fire. By some means the oil burst into a blaze. Emmerich tried to extinguish it and was severely burned about the hands and face. Finding his efforts in vain, he closed the basement door and ran up stairs and awoke his employer. all the inmates of the house, warning them of their danger. Then he went for a fire key to send an alarm. The key for that district used to be kept at the Thirteenth precinct police station in Flushing avenue. Presumably when the police moved to their new home at Tompkins and Vernon avenues they took the key with them, Any way, Mr. Rothfuhs could not who sleeps in the old station. Keelsch rar half clad to the fire alarm box at Flushing and single it. He aroused Koelsch, the patrolman, who sleeps in the old station. Koelsch ran half clad to the fire alarm box at Fushing and Tompkins avenues, but the apparatus was out of order. Then he burried to Gall's drug store in Tompkins avenue and Hopkins street and sent an alarm by telephone.

More than twenty minutes had elapsed hefore the arrival of the first engine. The flames had gained such headway that the firemen could do little to check them. The frame building burned like tinder. The police had notified the people in the house to hurry out, and it was at first thought that all had reached the aldewalk in asfety. The flames soon spread to the adjoining house. 31 Delmonleo place and 172 Hopkins street. Is the light of the flames on Delmonleo place a woman's figure was seen at a window on the top floer of the corner house. The window was recognized as in the rooms occupied by Mrs. Henry and her little ones, and a thrill of horror ran through the crowd as their slight of horror ran through the crowd as their slight of horror ran through the crowd as their slight of horror ran through the crowd as their slight of horror ran through the crowd as their slight of horror ran through the crowd as their slight of horror ran through the crowd as their slight of horror ran through the crowd as a fearful sight contronted them. On the floor fruck Company 2 could enter the house, a fearful sight confronted them. On the floor eloce to the hallway, her helpless baby suffocated in her arms, lay the scorched and blackened body of Mrs. Henry. Beside her, as if overcome by the smoke while seeking to shelter themselves in her skirts, were the dead bodies of the other three children, Harry, aged 11; Julia, aged 9, and Woodsy, aged 4. With the exception of Woodsy the children were fully crossed. The mother had evidently risked the lives of all of them in her endeavor to save them from the danger of going in the cold, damp night air unclothed. They probably had been a widow, her brother, John Heiselman with a bassball bat an her highly, and the women went as they told of it e struggle she had undergone rather than part from her bables.

The fires at 172 Hopkins street and at 31 Delmonico piace were soon extinguished. They were thickly peopled, and few of those who hurried from their beds found time to save any of their clothes. Charles Lieberman, from the second floor of 170 Hopkins street, escaped with his wife and five young children by the roof. In the darkness he stumbled over the body of Mrs. Hesser, who had fainted, and assisted her husband to carry her to a place of safety. Hesser returned to try and save $60 that was in his room. He was driven back by the smoke. He saw Mrs. Henry dressing her children, and warned her against delay. John Keny, with his wife and two children, on their way to the roof, tried to force her to accompany them, but without avail. She said the children would take cold. She seemed frentled with excitement, and appeared hardly to know what she was saying or doing. There were no fire escapes on the building. The refugees who reached the roof escaped through the adjoining houses.

Jacob Emmerich, who from his book knowledge is known by his associates as the Schoolmaster, was taken to St. Catherine's Hospital. His hurts are painful, but not necessarily dangerous. Hefore he was taken there he told Police Captain Martin that Rothfuk was responsible for the caismity. The statement that he made and which he will be called upon to repeat under, oath at the Coroner's inquest is as follows: "When I put the pot on the fire to bell the cil I noticed that it was leaking. I told Rothfuhs about it and said that, was sfraid it was not safe. He replied, Never mind. Use it, now and I will have it fixed against next time we want it."

Emmerich thinks it was through this leak that the flames grached the oil.

Fire Marshal Lewis says if the neighborhood had been notified where a fire key was to be found after the old station house key had been removed, that the lives of Mrs. Henry and her four children would not have been Affaire in Honolulu.

The mail from Honolulu, with advices up to the 7th instant, is due in this city to-morrow. The news is looked for here by men who have business interests in the Hawalian Islands, and who are auxious for the continuance of the quietude that prevailed there when the new queen became the successor of the deceased King on the 29th of January. Despatches from San Francisco have brought the information that the Ministers would probably remain in office, but there are apprehensions of their resignation, and this would almost certainly lead to serious troubles. There is no end to the intrigues in Honolulu between the natives and the foreigners, the Annexationists and the Republicans, and the foreigners especially always stand ready to selze any opportunity of the Government. The universal and overnow-spring grief of the natives over the death of thing Kalakaus, and the prompt section of the Ministry in proclaiming his successor, may have exercised a restraining influence upon the disturbing elements.

It is known that the new Queen, who is 53 years of age, has lately been in feeble health. When the news of the death of the King reached Honolulu, the Hulletin of that city took occasion to say that the maintenance of the authority of the Hawaiian Government was mainly dependent upon the policy of the American republic. new queen became the successor of the de-

William H. Powell of 60 Decatur street, Brooklyn, has lost faith in Beal Estate Agent Perrin H. Sumner of 198 Broadway. Mr. Powell and Mr. Sumner on Feb. 4 jointly idenwith his throat cut in his room at the Astor House, where he had registered as Fred Evans. as being that of George H. Edgar. Mr. Sum-ner gained fame at the time some unknown man committed suicide at the Getty House in Yonkers by identifying the body as being that of George H. Edgar, and later declaring that he had been mistaken. Mr. Sumner has appeared, for some reason, to be very anxious to obtain proof of the death of George H. Edgar. He has told many stories about the mysterious Edgara. Mr. Powell made this affidavit on

William H. Powell of 60 Decatur street, Brooklyn, county of Kings, State of New York. being duly sworn, hereby deposes that Perria H. Sumner of 198 Broadway, New York city. has repeatedly asked him to make false and untrue statements regarding the identification of the body of the supposed suicide at the Astor House on Feb. 4, known as George H.

That the specifically untrue statement Perrin H. Sumner asked William H. Powell to make was to the effect that it was the said Powell who first suspected or suggested that the suicide was George H. Edgar, and that he went to said Perrin H. Sumner's office and urged to said Perrin H. Sumner's office and urged said Sumner, and also his son, Arthur, later, to go with him (Powell) to identify the body. Whereas the contrary was the case, said Sumner being the one to urge said Powell to go to see the dead man with him and atterward to take his son.

He supplemented his affidavit with the following statement. He had been keeping a dairyman's supply store at 112 Chambers street with a partner named Lockwood. They had been burned out and had quarrelied. He was looking for another partner and consulted Mr. Sumner, with whom he had had some real estate transactions. Sumner told him he had a man in year the reminded Powell that he had met the man in his Sumner's office. Powell had a vague remembrange of having been introduced to some one. Sumner also told him that a man whom he had introduced to him as James H. Smith was really James H. Edgar, an uncle of George H. Edgar. He had assumed the name of Smith on account of family troubles in England. After some solicitation Powell consented to receive Mr. Smith as a boarder. He was told that if young Edgar decided to enter into partnership with him. Mr. Smith would furnish the necessary funds. Mr. Smith would furnish the ford had yet so showed fire. Powell a telegram, and said that he had been called to Philadelphia. Neither Mr. nor Mrs. Powell has seen him since.

On Feb. 4, when the bapers were all discussing the identity of the Astor House suicide, Powell called at Sumner's office to learn if there was any news of his proposed partner. Sumner asked him if he had read about the suicide, and if the describition of the man did not bring to his mind very forcibly George H. Edgar, He showed him a letter signed George H. He is anxious to have the mystery cleared up, and is willing to do all he can to aid the proper authorities.

The latest identification of the Astor House suicide was made by two women on Monday, just before the Morgue closed. They saw the body and declared that it was an Edgar.

Fred Edgar, they said, they knew him as, and he was a nephew of the Getty House suicide in Yonkers. He was an actor. They were actresses, and they would have him buried beside his uncle. They came back on Tuesday and made partial arrangements with one of the undortakers near the Morgue to conduct the burial. They would not give their names, but said they would do so when they took the body. The funeral was to have been held yesterday, but a publication of their object evidently frightened them off. They did not appear either at the Morgue or at the undertakers, and the latter returned the burial permit which he had obtained.

"I am sorry now that I allowed the matter to become public." Morgue keeper White said last night. "I suppose now this man a friends will allow him to go to Potter's Field. Some time, perhaps, when the excitement about him has died out they will have him taken up and reburied beade his unpole."

Corner Levy would like to know who the women were. He does not mean to close his inquest in this case until he has satisfied himself whether there ever were any real Edgars.

At the record session of the conference of the Catholic clergy of the archdiocese, held yesterday in the hall of St. Patrick's Institute. in Mulberry street, which was attended by about 100 priests, the Alberius question was again discussed. The Rev. Nicholas Busso, S. J., Moderator of the Conference, made an address, and Archbishop Corrigan said some very pertinent things. The Archbishop presided. and Mgr. Preston, Vicar-General of the archdiocese, sat near him. A paper on dogmatic theology was read by the Rev. John B. Mc-Grath of St. Monica's Church in East Seventyninth street. The Rev. Michael J. Murray. pastor of St. Joseph's Church, Bainecliff, in Next came the case of Albertus, the moderate those meetings in which the property of indi-viduals in land was attacked, and who went to two confessors, the first of whom condemned him for attending the meetings, while the second said he had a right to go to them. but that he should, not for the sake of peace and to avoid giving spiritual offence to weaker brethren. Moderator Russo made a little speech before the discussion was opened. He said that the impression had got abroad that Al-Anti-Poverty Society, and that the case about to be discussed had been constructed so that is would fit the Anti-Povertyites exactly. This was not so. The case had actually taken place. When he submitted it to the priests of the archdiocese he hadn't thought of the Anti-Poverty Society. The publication in the news-papers some days ago of the circular sent to Russo. He said that he was certain a priest in bapers some days ago of the circular sent to the priests was also spoken of by Father Russo. He said that he was certain a priest in the assemblage he was addressing was the one who gave out the circular. Who it was he did not know, but he did know that that clergyman acted very impreperly, to say the least.

After father flusso had spoken, slips of paper containing the names of the priests presentwers placed in a hat, as had been done at Tuesday's session. One slip which was taken out contained the name of the Rev. James McMahon, pastor of St. Andrew's Church in Duans street. This appointed him to read the paper on the case. Father McMahon is one of the eldest priests in the archdiocese. He finished his paper in a few minutes. Then another slip was taken out, and this called for the Rev. James T. McGovern, one of the assistants at the Church of the Annunciation in Manhattanville, who slao read the paper he had prepared. Both Father McGovern, one of the assistants at the Church of the Annunciation in Manhattanville, who slao read the paper he had prepared. Both Father McGovern, one of the assistants at the Church of the Annunciation in Manhattanville, who slao read the paper he had prepared. O'Flynn held at Tuesday's session, that Albertus was wrong in contending that the matter of attending the meetings was merely political and beyond the province of ecclesiastical authority. It was an ecclesiastical matter, because it was a question of right and wrong. For ages the Church and the world have recognized the right of individuals to property in land. Although the doctrine which denies such right has never been explicitly denounced, the Church has implicitly condemned it by her action. She has accumulated property in land. For these reasons the first confessor was right in condemning the action of Albertus. The course pursued by the second confessor, who told Albertus he had a right to attend the meetings of the moderate hocialists, was condemned by both priests. They held that, as the authorities had discretion i of the moderate socialists.

When Fathers McMahon and McGovern had finished their papers the Rev. Joseph F. Shashfan an assistant at St. Agnes's Church in East Forty-third street, asked if attesdance at meetings of the Single Tax club was to be regarded as a re-erved case. Father Ruseo replied that it was not because the reservation was against the scandal arising from attendance at the meetings Albertus went to rather than the doctrine. None of the other priest at the Conference had anything to say about the case. Each clergyman handed the paper he had prepared to Father Ruseo.

Archibishop Corrigan glosed the conference with a few remarks. He reviewed the doctrines of the moderate Socialists. It was said by one of the priests who attended the conference that the Archbishop intimated very strongly that any priest of the archdiocese who acted as Albertus's second confessor had acted would render himself liable to being disciplined.

The statement was made resterday that Archbishop Corrigan will soon issue an address to the Catholics of the archdiocese upon the questions involved in the Albertus discusdress to the Catholics of the archdiocese upon the questions involved in the Albertus discussion. I do not think the Archbishop will do so," said a priest whom a Sun reporter questioned last night. The Pope is shortly to issue an encyclical on the social question. It is to be a document that will treat on every possible point, and of course questions similar to those in the case of Albertus will be covered very thoroughly. This encyclical will be promulgated in this archdiocese by Archbishop Corrigan. Probably that is what was referred to by those who made the statement you speak of,"

To-day's session of the conference will be held in the vestry of St. Patrick's Cathedral. Dr. Burtsell is to attend.
